State Library Announces Free Proposal Writing Workshop

Columbia, S.C. – On Wednesday, May 12, from 3:00 to 4:30 pm, the South Carolina State Library will host a free workshop, Proposal Writing Basics. Participants will learn about the basics of writing a proposal for nonprofit organizations. Attendees will get answers to common proposal writing questions such as: What are the key components of a proposal to a foundation or corporation? Who should sign a grant request? How should the proposal be packaged? Should you contact a funder if your proposal is turned down? Where can you find more information on proposal writing, including sample proposals? Proposal Writing Basics, an introductory overview of the process for new proposal writers, will give you some answers!

This free session is open to state employees, librarians, and the public. Joanne Kepics from the Foundation Center in Atlanta will be the trainer. The session will be held at the South Carolina State Library in room 309 of 1430 Senate St., Columbia. Participants must register online at <http://tinyurl.com/y3b56y4>.

About the S.C. State Library

The South Carolina State Library is the primary administrator of federal and state support for the state's libraries. The Library is a national model for innovation, collaboration, leadership and effectiveness. The Library's mission is to optimize South Carolina's investment in library and information services. In 1969, as the result of action by the General Assembly, the State Library Board was redesignated as the South Carolina State Library and assumed responsibility for public library development, library service for state institutions, service for the blind and physically handicapped, and library service to state government agencies. Headquartered in Columbia, S.C., the Library is funded by the state of South Carolina, by the federal government through the Institute of Museum and Library Services, and other sources.
